Re: the email below - The PSEA negotiations will get political and they will get unnecessarily ugly, it appears. Because when the State and PSEA get to impasse, this union has binding arbitration, there's really no need to get mad at the Administration (Governor or me). We simply go to an arbitrator and the decision is binding on the State and the union.

We will bring our final offer to the table this Thursday and Friday and request a federal mediator if PSEA is unwilling to consider it (which is likely based on my discussion with Business Manager John Cyr yesterday). If the mediator is unable to make progress, we schedule binding arbitration. I don't understand PSEA's strategy with a 90-day session, (and the necessity to get monetary terms to the Legislature before they go home) but here we go.

Hello All:

I received a call from Susan Fischetti about a Wildlife Trooper in Sitka who wrote to Representative Meyer asking him to put pressure on Commissioner Kreitzer in the PSEA union negotiations. The call was basically an FYI. She plans to respond to him by telling him that the Representative supports the troopers but cannot get involved in union negotiations.

I told her that she could speak with Kevin Brooks about the issue. She said she didn't feel there was a need - but she has his number.

No action needed at this time.

Dear Governor Palin,

Thank you for doing such a good as governor. I appreciate your efforts and it doesn't seem as much like business as usual.

I'd like you to consider an option for our current budget surplus. We don't have a lottery but we do have the oil on the North Slope and we do have hig oil prices. Each year there is a big issue of funding education and how much to give or not give. I'd like you to consider, Steve Cowpers plan to establish an educational endowment with the surplus. IF projections are correct, 5 Billion dollars over the next couple of years would result in 10 or 12 Billion dollars in 10 more years. The revenues off the investment of this amount would almost fund Education in the state. The problem is that it is difficult to get legislators to put off spending today that which will benefit us tomorrow.

Can you imagine having an additional 1-1.5 Billion a year to fund education? We might even get to the point as is Georgia, where students who perform well during their high school years will be supported with in state tuition grants, from this very fund.

I know it would be a hard sell to bank the money and not let people spend it. As a republican and fiscal conservative, I'm willing to put off extra spending now to grow a golden future for education and the children of our State.

Thank you,

Tim MacDonald

I just wanted to congratulate Governor Palin for her excellent interview in Vogue's February 2008 issue. When I first saw the article, I was dreading the expected portrayal of Alaska and Governor Palin. My dread was not due to anything in regards to Governor Palin, as I feel she is doing a wonderful job as governor. It was more due to how it seems many newspapers and magazines tend to take potshots at Alaska (especially the pipeline issue)whenever they can. But as I read the article, I was pleasantly surprised and impressed by the answers given by Governor Palin and the view of Alaska that Vogue included in the article. Thank you Governor Palin, for all your hard work and for representing Alaska so well.

Dear ANCSA CEO Board Members,

Thank you for your gracious time in attention on February 15 for hosting Department of Natural Resources Commissioner Tom Irwin, Gasline Team Member Bruce Anders, and myself for a presentation about the Administration's progress in facilitating the construction of an Alaska natural gas pipeline.

The importance of this gasline project is known to every Alaskan, and soon, to the rest of the nation. For it is not just Alaskans that need the vast reserves of North Slope natural gas to get to market, to invigorate our heretofore oil-reliant revenue stream. Just as we Alaskans need to transition to development of our natural gas resources to fund our economy, heat our homes, schools and businesses, America needs our gas, too. America needs price relief, and it needs the energy security offered by this safe, reliable, clean form of energy.

I would like to emphasize to you one important aspect of the gasline project that Commissioner Irwin and Mr. Anders took care to explain. The State's and the ANCSA corporations' interests are closely aligned. For all of us, it is not enough just to facilitate the construction of a gasline. We must work to facilitate the construction of the right gasline - one built based upon fair and equitable commercial terms that maximize the interests of the owners of those resources.

These terms were the fundamental principles of AGIA, which passed with the overwhelming support of the Alaska Legislature. By requiring project milestones, AGIA moves the project beyond the obstacles that have so far impeded progress. AGIA's access and expansion provisions guarantee that explorers enjoy equal footing with North Slope major producers when it comes to resource development. AGIA effectively controls transportation costs, so that whether or not an explorer owns pipeline equity will not drive exploration and development economics.

These construction, access, and rate-making provisions ensure that market conditions, not the corporate needs of an integrated energy company, maximize exploration and ensure continued reliable gas flow. The State of Alaska, and other North Slope landowners such as ANCSA corporations, have vested and allied interests in assuring that the AGIA requirements are incorporated into any gas pipeline project. Further, through the 7(i) revenue sharing provisions, all ANSCA corporations, and not just those with gas-prone land ownership interests, have a stake.

We sincerely appreciate the ANCSA CEO Board's past support of the Alaska natural gas pipeline project. But we have a ways to go, and we have some vocal critics. So we need your continued help. At this juncture, we would sincerely appreciate the Board's continued backing of an AGIA project and specifically, the Board's support for a project that satisfies the important AGIA principles. Only an AGIA-compliant pipeline will ensure timely construction, reasonable access and expansion provisions, and a low tariff. Alaskans would benefit, the ANCSA Corporations would benefit, and the nation would benefit.

Please use Bruce Anders at 269-8775 as your contact for facilitating future discussions or issues of concern to the Board. I thank you again for your time and attention to this most important of issues.

/S/

Dear Beth,

Thank you for your e-mail. I have just returned home this evening to Santa Fe, New Mexico, after being in Washington for our meeting, and was thinking on the plane that one of the first people to whom I wanted to write was you.

Governor Palin was absolutely fantastic. Her talk was excellent. (It was obvious that someone had done some research on the Hoover Institution -- which was great!) and she did a superb job during the Q&A. I heard people afterward saying things like "She's a real fireball. We need more people in government like her." Other adjectives I heard were "genuine, unaffected, straightforward, thoughtful." She was, in other words, a total success. I hope you will convey to her our deep appreciation for having made time for us in her schedule.

The meeting was, overall, from the accounts that I am hearing, a real success, and Governor Palin was a very important part of it all.

Again, many, many thanks for all your help. Janice Mason was hugely helpful, too. Please convey my thanks to her as well.

All the very best,

Noel

I suggest that ALL state budget surplus funds this year be spent toward addressing the current unfunded state pension liabilities in PERS, TERS, and any other similar state-obligation pension funds.

We easily may not have a surplus in future years, when these unfunded pension liabilities can really come back to haunt us. Good financial planning, I suggest, means that we completely fund the state's pension liabilities while we have the surplus money to do so.

Thank you.

Governor,

We'd like your approval to appoint members for the Yukon River Panel Advisory Committee (YRPAC). The Committee's focus is conservation of Yukon River salmon stocks, develops management programs, identifies restoration/enhancement opportunities, and administers the Yukon River Salmon Restoration and Enhancement Fund.

The names below are carefully selected by ADF&G to balance the needs of the upper and lower river users and fit the statutory requirement of the Committee. The panel is comprised 8 members, 4 for the lower river and 4 for the upper river, of 2 of which must be AK Native non-profits.

Recommendations for reappointment are for Shirley Clark, Angela Demientieff, Jennifer Hooper, Joseph Strongheart Sr., Mike Smith and Virgil Umphenour.

Recommendations for new appointment are Richard Carol and Erik Weingarth.

All names meet requirements to serve on the YRPAC and provide a good balance of historical knowledge of issues and new representation.

Subject: PSEA contract

Re: the email below - The PSEA negotiations will get political and they will get unnecessarily ugly, it appears. Because when the State and PSEA get to impasse, this union has binding arbitration, there's really no need to get mad at the Administration (Governor or me). We simply go to an arbitrator and the decision is binding on the State and the union.
We will bring our final offer to the table this Thursday and Friday and request a federal mediator if PSEA is unwilling to consider it (which is likely based on my discussion with Business Manager John Cyr yesterday). If the mediator is unable to make progress, we schedule binding arbitration. I don't understand PSEA's strategy with a 90-day session, (and the necessity to get monetary terms to the Legislature before they go home) but here we go.

Subject: Legislative Contact - Rep Meyer's Office

Hello All:

I received a call from Susan Fischetti about a Wildlife Trooper in Sitka who wrote to Representative Meyer asking him to put pressure on Commissioner Kreitzer in the PSEA union negotiations. The call was basically an FYI. She plans to respond to him by telling him that the Representative supports the troopers but cannot get involved in union negotiations.

I told her that she could speak with Kevin Brooks about the issue. She said she didn't feel there was a need – but she has his number.

No action needed at this time.

Subject: Lori Zaumseil/Meeting

A woman named Lori Zaumseil, representing a group called Committee for Noxious and Invasive Plant Management (CNIPM), is here with several other Alaskans to meet with the Congressional delegation on pending legislation - the 100th Meridian bill. She heard that you were in town and wants her group to meet with you, possibly in the company of the delegation.

We explained that your schedule is quite full and that you will be leaving town today, but she asked that we forward her request. If, as I suspect, this doesn't work for you, I would be glad to meet with the group.

Please note that my email address has changed. My new email address is jwkatz@alaskadc.org. Thank you .

P.S.
I am meeting with President Hamilton of the University this morning to discuss his federal priorities and appropriations requests. Is there anything that you would like me to communicate in your behalf?

Also, I didn't see a story by Robert Dillon on Congressional earmarks. I guess we have something else to look forward to.

Subject: Yukon Panel

Governor,

We'd like your approval to appoint members for the Yukon River Panel Advisory Committee (YRPAC). The Committee's focus is conservation of Yukon River salmon stocks, develops management programs, identifies restoration/enhancement opportunities, and administers the Yukon River Salmon Restoration and Enhancement Fund.

The names below are carefully selected by ADF&G to balance the needs of the upper and lower river users and fit the statutory requirement of the Committee. The panel is comprised 8 members, 4 for the lower river and 4 for the upper river, of 2 of which must be AK Native non-profits.

Recommendations for reappointment are for Shirley Clark, Angela Demientieff, Jennifer Hooper, Joseph Strongheart Sr., Mike Smith and Virgil Umphenour.

Recommendations for new appointment are Richard Carol and Erik Weingarth.

All names meet requirements to serve on the YRPAC and provide a good balance of historical knowledge of issues and new representation.

Dr. Head,

Was good to speak with you on the phone. To recap I'll get with Law and double-check those options to raise to the Governor. We can't do much until the session wraps up but we should have a better indication much sooner than that.

Feel free to email or call anytime. 465-3939 is my Juneau # and 748-5816 is my cell.

Hi Frank,

I was just checking if I am still on the State Medical Board. Have I been reappointed, or has someone been appointed to take my place. The next meeting is coming up the first week of April, and I need to know if I am still chairing the meeting, and if I will need to make arrangements to my schedule to attend.

Thanks
David Head, M.D.
